Technical Problems

Sometimes the copies that were available for scanning had been defaced by punch holes or marks; printing of the pages was in some instances askew or very close to the edge or center binding; due to problems with the scanner the scanning of pages that were thinner than those opposite caused shadowing at the center. The results may not be perfect, but are readable - so that the information contained is available to you. Apologies are intended for the imperfections. Consideration was given to scanning with character recognition; this would have involved complete re-editing of 'The Quester' and many of the original 'ideosynchronistities' would have been lost. Also, the time needed was not available.
